

Finance and Management

A huge profile, with small class sizes, means you'll be treated as an individual with us in management and finance – not a number.

We're a top-ranked university for business. In fact, SOAS is ranked 2nd in Business & Management in London – and based close to the financial epicentre of the world. The opportunities here are countless. From seminars exposing you to the very latest research, to a front row seat to rapidly-changing global business and economic landscape of the capital. Multinationals shaken by emerging economies, e-business rapidly gaining traction, social entrepreneurs with wider agendas, and other financial influences are shaping the world. By increasing your understanding of how finance and firms are tackling the major challenges facing global business, we'll also increase your impact and chances of career success.

The fundamentals of business are just the start. We touch on the ethical and legal aspects of finance, alongside other key topics, and offer a uniquely wide range of language modules. There's plenty of variety in teaching methods too, and our small classes create an interactive learning experience, and closer relationships with students and high-ranking academics who've published world-leading research.
