

Law

A world-leading law school that digs deeper into the most pressing, contemporary, and ever-evolving legal issues shaping societies around the globe.

The SOAS School of Law is truly unique. With a spotlight on the Global South, post-colonial geographies, and the ways law can be used to marginalise or empower people, you'll focus on core subjects alongside a fascinating deep dive into your chosen specialism. SOAS is a platform for informed debate and rich learning. You'll learn with and from students from every background – and be taught by experts with years of experience advising governments and international organisations, and in professional practise.

SOAS is a vibrant hub, and your chance to make connections, conduct notable research, and boost your CV. Combining theory with hands-on experience, we offer an incredibly wide range of modules that go beyond law and across languages, cultures, economics, politics, and more. You'll have the power to tailor a bespoke programme – and the freedom to specialise in areas that interest you.
