

South East Asia

Develop your language skills and intercultural awareness of a fast-developing region, with an increasingly important strategic role in global affairs.

Develop your knowledge of South East Asia through a combination of study including language, literature, history, cinema, politics, economics or law. This diverse region has a fascinating mix of cultures, languages, religions and traditions to explore and is an increasingly influential player on the global political stage.

Whether you've become interested in South East Asia during your undergraduate career, or perhaps as a result of travelling in the region, our structured and analytical approach will take your language skills and cultural awareness to the next level.

We believe knowledge of a local language is vital to engage properly with a different culture. As a result, we deliver a specialist language-based scholarship in combination with regional focus and disciplinary skills. We focus on the Burmese, Malay, Indonesian, Thai, Vietnamese and Khmer languages. Our expertise is complemented by our collaboration with partner universities across South East Asia.

Your learning will be further supported by resources in the SOAS Library's South East Asia Collection and access to other collections, such as the Royal Asiatic Society, V&A and the British Library, just a stone's throw away from our central London location.

Courses:

- MA ... and Intensive Language (South East Asian Language)
- MA South East and Pacific Asian Studies
- MPhil/PhD in South East Asian Studies

Duration:

- 1 year full time (OR)
- 2-3 years part time

You'll need:

- 2:ii or equivalent

Potential careers:

- Journalism and Publishing
- International Trade and Marketing
- Non-governmental organisations
- Government
- Public Relations
- International organisations

More information:

► soas.ac.uk/sea

Global Top 100
For Languages*

*QS 2020 World University Rankings